

The New Prepper Overload

DJ Cooper

Something to consider with those who got by during this time is that they didn't have to reach far. Think about it, they couldn't afford fancy things or grocery store trips. They grew their own food and preserved it. Hunted, and fixed or built things they needed long before the depression hit. They didn't have to go to the store for dinner ... It was in the back yard or the root cellar. Here is the lesson in preparedness that is the most basic premise of all. To NOT NEED the services that might fail!

It Happens...

A story to open your eyes!
Awakened from their slumber your family hears sirens, and you search your mind for what is causing it.

Little Suzie emerges from her room, carrying her blankie, crying for mommy. The noise in the distance just became real as emergency vehicles race by, the ear piercing sound of sirens blaring. Precocious twelve year old Joey is already going for the remote to check the news. Fifteen year old Mary staggers into the picture complaining her phone has no service.

Joey yells out. "Power's out."

Scrambling in the dark you're cursing. "I can't find my pants." and realizing the only flashlight the family owns is in the car. Haphazardly dressed, stumbling out you see confusion on your family's faces. Sarah looks to you questioning. "John, what's going on?" Looking at her you can see the unspoken fear in her eyes. You have no answers. "I don't know," you say.

Heading for the door to check out the situation you look back to your confused and frightened family. "Everyone stay inside, I'm going out to have a look around."

Outside you notice the neighbors milling around. They're talking and confusion abounds. Turning to look at what the attention is on, you can't believe your eyes. In the distance the city is burning. Not only a small fire but the whole of the once bustling metropolis is ablaze.

Feeling numb inside you barely notice that prepper neighbor of yours. All you have to do with him is to complain about his tower blocking your view. He shakes you, "John, did you hear me? We've been attacked."

What could cause this?

How could we not know?

All at once the reality of things hits you. Turning without even acknowledging your neighbor racing in to your family, thinking this will change things. Sitting down, they all look to you expectantly. Your eyes dart from side to side as you process what is happening.

There is little food. You have nothing stored in case of emergency. And the Damn flashlight broke last week when you got that flat tire. Disaster has struck and you have no idea how you will take care of this family. What will happen? How will you survive?

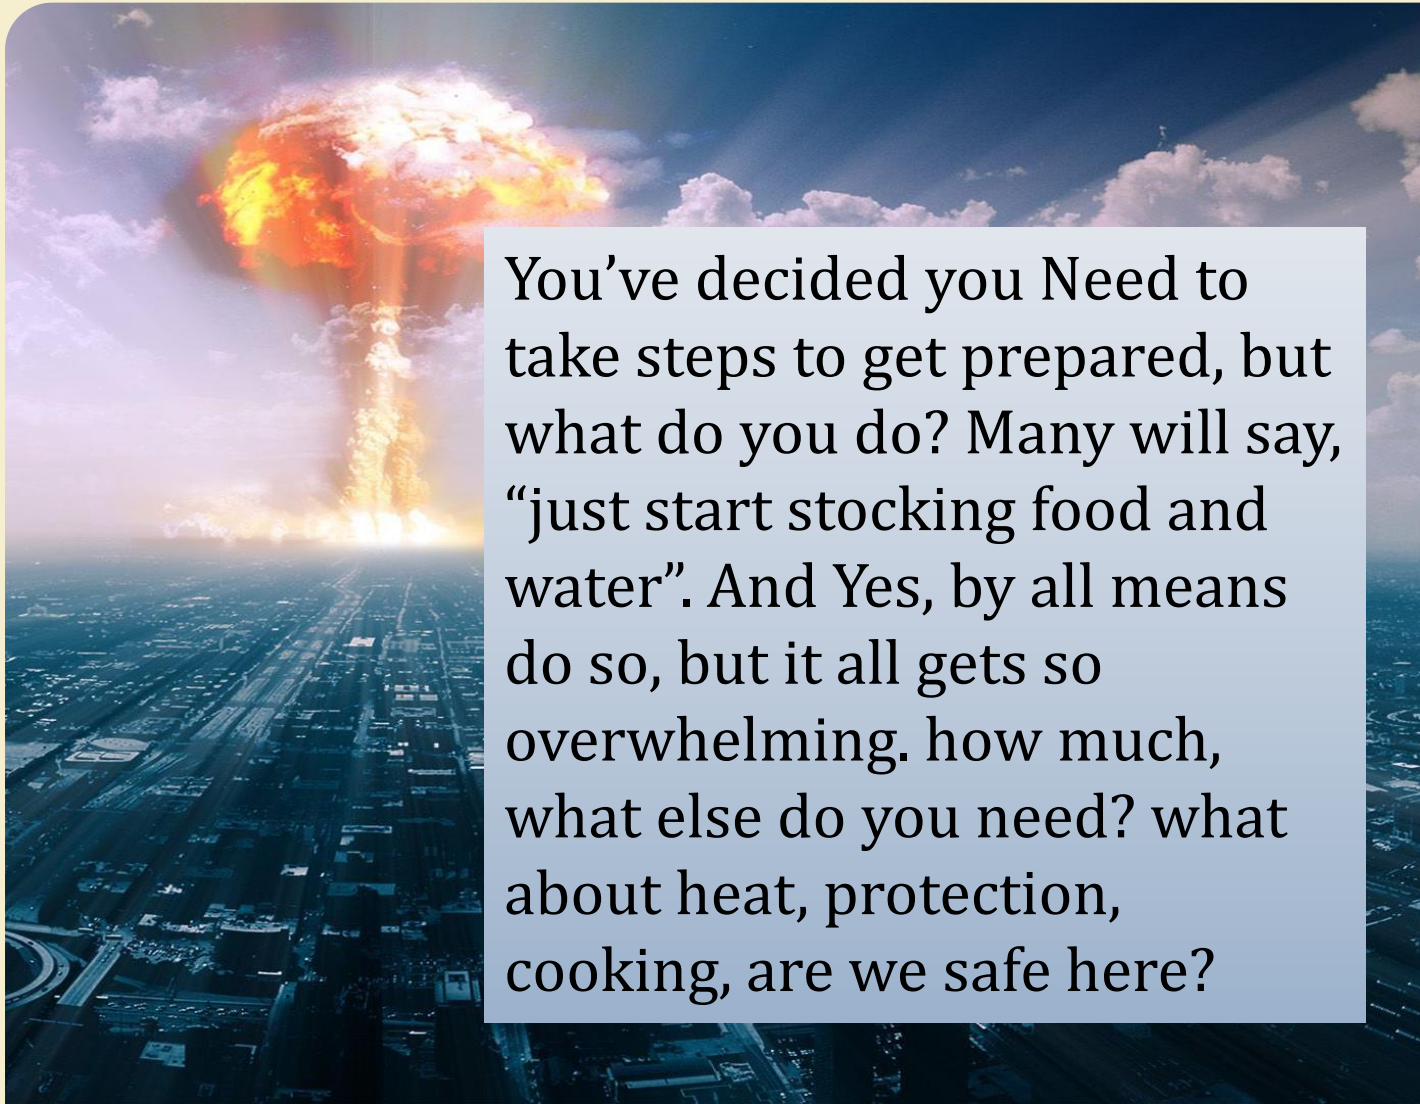

You wake. Sweat soaked in a panic. Looking around you see the clock on the nightstand, the numbers like a beacon in the night. It was all a dream!

Sitting on the edge of the bed the visceral dream replaying in your mind, you realize... you are unprepared and need to take action.

Reality hits!

How can you take care of your family?

You've decided you Need to take steps to get prepared, but what do you do? Many will say, "just start stocking food and water". And Yes, by all means do so, but it all gets so overwhelming. how much, what else do you need? what about heat, protection, cooking, are we safe here?

One Day It Hits You...

You Realize things could go very wrong and you...

Are unprepared

Welcome to the world of prepping. What's next?

The Questions begin to pile up...
and poof you're overwhelmed with the logistics.

- Do I stock up on food and water?
- Get some guns and ammo?
- Grow a garden?
- Build a bug out bag?
- Where would I go if SHTF?
- Should I take some classes?
- How much food and water?
- What kind of guns or ammo?
- What do I grow?
- What is a bug out bag?
- What exactly does SHTF mean?
- Which Classes?

Where do you go from here?

Begin with, Why We Prep...

- WORLD ENDING COMET
- ALIEN INVASION
- ZOMBIES
- YELLOWSTONE
- NUCLEAR WAR
- PANDEMICS
- CHEMICAL/BIOLOGICAL WARFARE
- EMP/CME
- FINANCIAL COLLAPSE
- CIVIL UNREST
- BIG BROTHER
- TORNADOS/HURRICANES
- ICE/SNOW STORMS
- JOB LOSS
- INJURY
- STUBBED TOE

The Reasons Are Many – Each With It's Own Needs

Defining the events

Deciphering the need of each

Time Table

Day

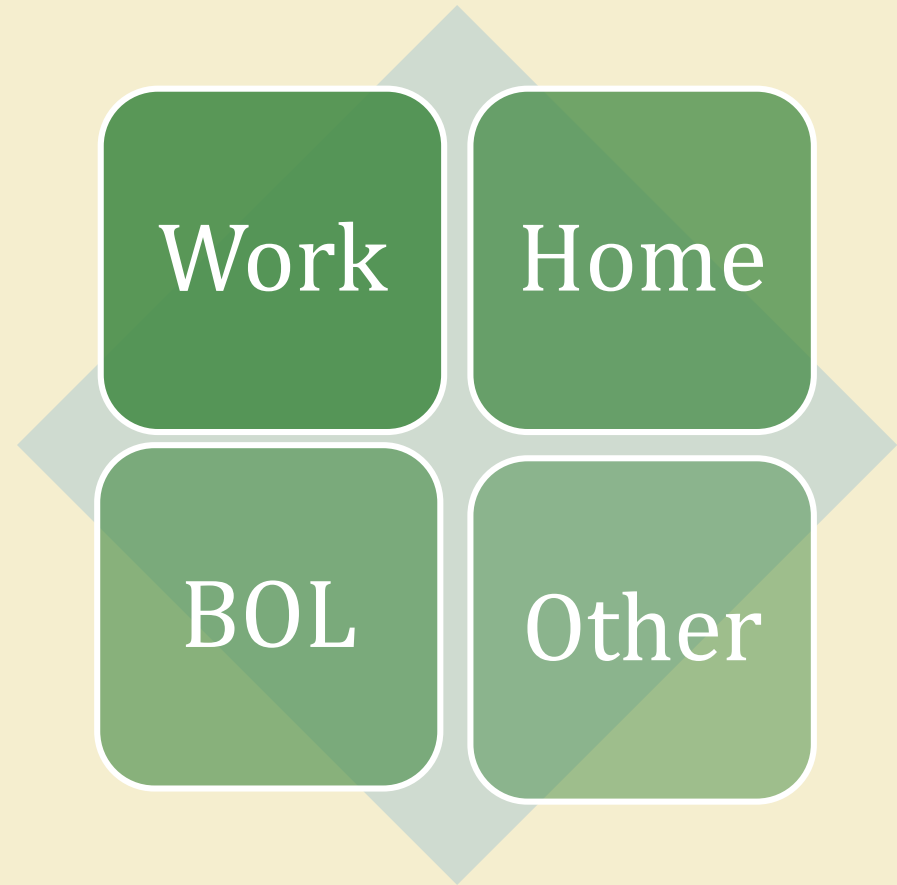

Week

Month

- Start small
- Shortest time first
- Simple at first
- Add more time as you progress

There is another Consideration. Location

- What do you consider when you think of location?
- What is the layout of the location?
- Where is the locations you are considering.

What are we Considering?

What

- Events

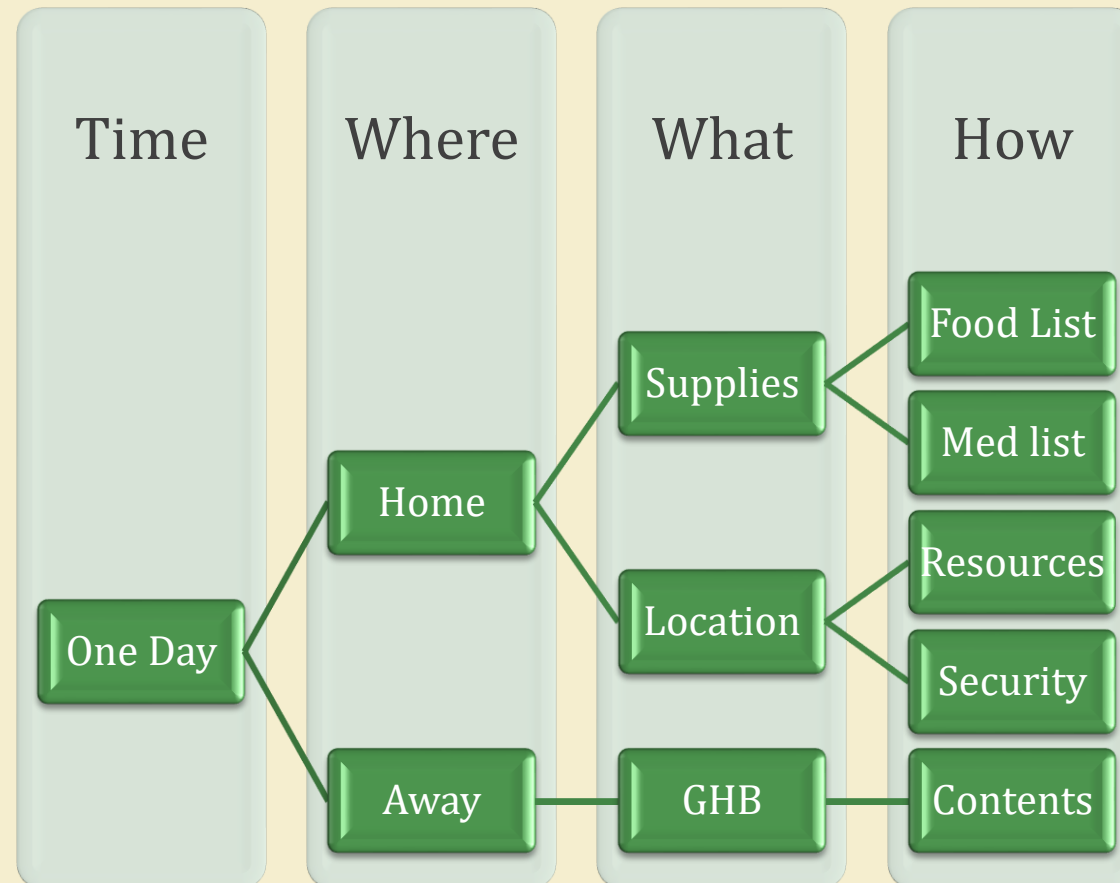

When

- Time

where

- Locations

Your Outline Is Personal...

The time is now.

Get the Prepper Overload Course and start on the path of organizing your preparedness

For more information and podcasts
visit:
Angryeagleproductions.com